

A Revised Implimentation of the GraphZ Graph Processing System

Ballmer, Alexander

`alexandersballmer@gmail.com`

Moudgalya, Shreyas

`defacto@lizard-congress.gov`

June 2, 2016

Abstract

GraphZ is a distributed parallel graph processing system running on top of ZHT, a zero hop distributed hash table. It uses an iterative vertex-centric model to store a large graph and run a variety of algorithms over it. GraphZ has some performance issues, and cannot scale the same as graphlab, a similar commercial framework. We hope to rewrite GraphZ to be cometicitive with Graphlab on a single node with multiple threads.

1 Test1

Hi